From the link, you can download a ".zip" file, or a "Source Code (.jar,.zip, or.war)". You can download the.zip archive and then unpack it, you will see two folders inside that folder, the "war" folder contains the web app and some other stuff, and the "zip" folder contains a lot of files that are necessary to compile the project. Then you can compile the project (maybe there are some warnings, I didn't tested it), after that, you can copy the bin folder of your newly compiled project in your tomcat6/webapps folder and you will have your web app working. local village, with excellent views over the countryside. The Lazy Dog Inn is a small pub situated near Penzance (also in South West Cornwall) which has not only gained an excellent reputation for its food but also as a popular venue for music and events. Amazingly situated a short stroll from the famous Bull Inn in the heart of Westport village, one of the most beautiful villages in Cornwall. Spend the day at this friendly, welcoming pub enjoying a refreshing pint and a delicious pie or pie-and-pancake before a relaxing evening on the coast. A welcome addition to the village of Westport, the Blue Anchor Pub offers food and drink both in the beer garden and inside the bar. There's a local band and singers almost every night as well as plenty of other entertainment, from darts to quiz nights. A cosy and friendly friendly village pub with a good selection of cask ales and real ciders including some gluten free and vegan ales. The food is served from 12.30 to 9.30 with full pub meals served throughout the day. A historic village pub which has been open for over 140 years and set in a picturesque location with views over the surrounding countryside and of the Manacles and St Michael' 82157476af
